

After the minimalistic wave of the nineties we see a lot of new interior design developments that embrace decoration. All those years of almost complete white interiors makes us long for a different approach. So we are looking for colour, texture or pattern to highlight our walls and ceilings. Luckily there are many trends that give the necessary inspiration, whether it be metallic gold combined with gold damask, big flower prints, Delft blue or colours and patterns that are inspired by nature, just to mention a few. This new decorative style can be added to big or small spaces, but will definitely give your interior a boost. So explore all the different possibilities and I'm sure that, depending on your taste and budget, there will be an idea or solution that for certain triggers excitement.
